THEY ARE MURDERERS.

SUCH, SAYS MR. MOODY, ARE THE DRINKERS AND GAMBLERS.

A Large Audience Listened to the Great Evangelist in His Crusade Against the Besetting Sins of Humanity.

The tabernacie, as usual, was crowded

The tabernacie, as usual, was crowded to its utmost capacity last night. Among those present were Governor and Mrs. O'Ferrall and Justice Crutchfield, who occupied seats near Mr. Moody.

In the song service Messus, Henning, Hunter, Bennett, and Smith sang as a squariette "Welcome, Wanderer, Welcome." They were followed by Mr. Jacobs in a solo entitled "The Handwriting on the Wall." Mr. Moody took as his text the fifth chapter of Daniel and the word "Tekel." He spoke in substance as follows:

Thou art weighed and found wanting" "Thou art weighed and found wantins";
that is the meaning of this single word.
Beishazzar was holding high carnival in mighty Babylon. Outside the city the warilke hosts of the powerful burius were threatening the city. In the midst of all the feasting the mysterious hand wrote Beishazzar's doem upon the wall. He was weighed and found wanting. That night his blood dyed the ground, and his kinsdom was given over to the Medes and Persians.

Persians.

"My friends, we have all got to be weighed some day. You and I have got to stand in the heavenly scales, and do we want to be found wanting? God will not weigh us by our carthly power, wealth or fame. If a man is rich humanity bows down before him—he is a demi-god; not so in Heaven; we are all equal and will all be weighed in the same balances."

THE COMMANDMENTS.

THE COMMANDMENTS.

Mr. Moody next took the Ten Commandments, and showed how we will be weighed by each of the Mosaic laws. "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." "Now," said the speaker, "let all the awearing men come forward. If you are weighed and found wanting you can go outside. I know some people say they can't help swearing because they are quick tempered. My friends, this is no excuse." Mr. Moody gave a number of appealing examples of the sin of profanity of its avidness, and of the final doom of the biasphemer. "Don't tell me a church member can swear and be a Christian. Such a member is an insuit to the Church and God. No member of a church has a right to swear and give as an excuse his quick temper. My friends, control that temper. "Workingmen, hold on to your Sunday. The man who will buy a Sanday newspaper, read it, and then go to church is not fit to be allowed to enter God's bouse.

take, Oh! my friends, take your stand on the Sunday question; don't work on that day, starve first, but hold on to your religion.

CHARACTER MANES MEN.

"Character is what makes men; may God give you moral character to stand up to your convictions. 'Honor thy fa-ther and mother,' and 'thou shalt not kill.' Under this head Mr. Moody said, "You think there are no murderers here to-night, but you are mistaken. A young man who will go home at 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning drunk, when he knows his mother is waiting for him until he c. W. Mercer. finally kills her from grief, he is the most contemptible of murderers. A young man who will go into those cursed brothels, or into a club with a bar, and drink and play cards when he knows his parents are anxiously waiting for him at home, he is a murderer.

"The man who will leave a pure home and a loving mother for frivolous associates he has no heart.

"My friends the fig."

"My friends, the sin of adultery is awful, it is the short way to hell. How many of you have rulined some one's sister? If adulterers were shot, how many of you would have to die to-night. My friends what we want is a revival of righteousness. Young men, if you were weighed on this question how many of you would be found wanting.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness,"

Thou shalt not covet "My friends, some people think they can break one commandment and not the rest, That is impossible; if you break one, you break all. There is no S. S. Carter, such thing as pulling one brick out of D. F. Craddock, My friends," said Mr. Moody, in H. closing, "with Christ I would shout with joy to be weighed in the scales to-night, without him I would be afraid."

Mr. Moody Gives Some Interesting Facts About the Promised Land.

When the big choir at the tabernacle commenced the service yesterday afternoon with that old familiar gospel hymn, "Sowing in the Morning," there were about 3,500 souls in the audience. The immense room was somewhat chilly by reason of the cold snap, but that had no effect upon the singing, which was as hearty as ever, and the entire service was interesting to all those who gathered themselves together for the purpose of worshipping their Creator and trying to do something for the uplifting of poor, suffering, sinful humanity.

The song service was continued for half an hour, as usual, and Mr. Jacobs sang a couple of solos with his usual attractive Moody announced that the meeting proper would be opened with Hymn No. 128, after the singing of which prayer No. 128, after the singing of was offered by Rev. Dr. Goodwin. After neveral hymns, Rev. George C. Neednam led in prayer.

WOULD PEFL AWEWARD IN HEAVEN.

Mr. Moody took as his subject "Heaven." "There is a class of people," said he, "who think that we are not to know much about Heaven. They think it a matter of speculation. I think we can learn a good deal about Heaven by talking about it and reading about it.
It is a good thing to be joyful in the Lord. Some of you here this afternoon

Not a soul shall enter into that city whose name is not written in the Book of Life.

Talk to a capitalist about his stocks and bonds, and you will see his face light up. Talk to a real Christian about his treasures in Heaven, and his face will brighten, and you know he is interested in his salvation. Wherever your treasure is there will be your heart."

Mr Moody illustrated this part of the sermon with an interesting story of the preacher who told his son, who was eathusiastic about the price of real estate in Chicago, that he would rather have

"A man said to me, 'Why is it that a man can't be a politician and be a Christian?' I told him that it is because he has his heart set on his reward in the shape of political honor. When he steps seeking office, and lets the office seek him, he can then be a Christian.

"Shall we know each other there? The Scriptures teach that we shall be sails-Scriptures teach that we shall be satisscriptures teach that we shall be satisfied when we see the Lord. I think this settles the question. Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob are all there, and we shall know them. I believe we shall know our friends in Heaven." Mr. Moody then told a very impressive and pathetic experience with a man whose conversion was brought about by the death of his only beloved child. He asked that all who wished to have the Christian people pray for them would make it known by rising in their seats. About seventy-five people arose and stood until they were recognized, and Mr. Moody offered an earnest prayer for their salvation.

He then asked that those who asked for prayer would attend the inquiry meet-ing at the Y. M. C. A., and that the Christian people would remain in the tabernacle for a short time and pray for the night meeting.

At the after meeting Rev. Mr. Need-ham made some brief remarks.

THE YOUNG POLES.

Miss Tyson was again greeted with a large number of young folks at her meeting yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The little ones, many of them, were accompanied by their parents, and the exercises of the evening proved of a highy interesting character to the older memers of the audience, as well as to the oung people. Ever since these meet-ies were inaugurated the attendance has been noticeably large, and the meet-ings will doubtless result in much good or the cause of Christ among the boys USHEES FOR TO-DAY,

He said, however, that a mistake had been made in closing the churches Sunday night, turning locae on the Moody meeting all the church mem-bers who crowded out the unconverted who desired to attend. For this tenson he kept Centenary church open Sunday night, and requested the male member of the church to keep away from the thernacle so that no church-going men might get the benefit of the meeting.

THE ELECTION FRAUDS.

THE CASE WAS CALLED IN THE HENRICO COUNTY COURT

But was Postponed Until the May Term. The Prisoners Rebuiled Several Other Miner Cases Heard.

The Smithers' precinct election fraud case came up in Henrico Court yesterday, and the trial was postponed until the second day of the May term, Tuesday, the 15th Instant. Mr. C. V. Meredith and Colonel Meade Haskins appeared for the defendants, and Captain A. B. Guigon for the Common-

Mr. Meredith addressed the Court and asked for a continuance. He said he had not heard until a few day ago that the case was set for the 17th, and that under the circumstances this was really the first hearing of the case; that one of his clients, Mr. J. W. Holleran, was to be married on the 17th, and that unless the necessity was great, so important engagement should be considered; that his associate counsel, Colonel Haskins, had just gotten out after a five-weeks' filness and that his physician had said that it would be injurious for him to undertake the case at this time.

He further said that the case had grown out of newspaper publication, and should be treated as any ordinary case. Captain Guigon controverted the idea that this was any ordinary case; in-deed, said he, it is a very extraordinary case; that it was so regarded by every body, and a grand jury specially called to sit upon it, and had adjourned from day to day; that a large number of wit-nesses had been summoned; that under ordinary circumstances he would not object to a postponement, but that this was an extraordinary case.

Judge Wickham here broke in and said that the case was not strictly set in a proper sense, that he named that day as being the earliest date when it could be

Captain Guigon said he did not mean to criticise the Court, but the 17th was named as the date, and that it had been so pub-lished, and so understood by the people As for Colonel Haskins' sickness he

Mr. Meredith disclaimed any intent t-reflect on Captain Guigon's integrity, and said it was creditable to his ability the he had been selected, and to his ambi-tion that he had accepted it. Colonel Haskins then took the floor and stated that he had been sick seven weeks, and if there was any difference of opinion between Captain Guigon and his physician, Dr. George Ben Johnson, of his ability to conduct the case on the 17th he would like to have the latter sum:

There was a good deal of discussion over some of the appointments, in a larg-number of cases Mr. John Pope decining to vote, and in some cases voting in the negative on the recommendation of the chairman of the Democratic Committee.

Mr. Archer Patterson spoke in favor of a change on the ground that whether the cause of dissatisfaction was real or imaginary, there should be a board at pointed who would inspire the utmost confidence in every class of voters.

Mr. Pope moved that a change be made.

Mr. Winston offered several names to select from, and Mr. Pope nominated one of them, Messrs. Boyer and Lewis, the

The same sort of contest took place; Mr. Pope voting for a change on account of the dissatisfaction of some of the voters of the precinct, and Mesers. Boyer and Lewis voting in the negative Dr. R. A. Patterson appealed to the committee to give them a change, held that as a citizen and a tax-pay he had a right to go to the polls to vo satisfied that his vote would be procounted, and that there should be doubt as to the integrity of the judg agent of the road. They also spoke in enthusiastic terms of their reception at New Orleans, and stated that the tripwas an exceptionally pleasant one throughout. Complimentary resolutions were passed by the party endorsing the Seaboard Air Line in high terms.

The convention, which was composed of about 350 representative wholesale grocers from the South and West, unanimously elected Mr. Eabert G. Leigh, Jr., of this city, president, and Mr. John Blair treasurer. The telegraphic news in Sunday's paper stating that Mr. Leigh was nominated, but that Mr. Treadwell was unanimously elected, was erroneous, as Mr. Leigh was nominated by Mr. Treadwell, and received a unanimous vote. As the president resides in Richmond, it will necessfate the removal of the secretary, Mr. Hooker, to this place, he being a railroad officer.
